Kayden - Like Drops In The Ocean

                      tom:
                    D (forma dos acordes no tom de C )
Capostraste na 2ª casa

                                      C
I just had to let you know
                                    Am
That everything that shines ain't gold
G                  C
And when you finally find what's left of
                  Am       G
This lonely adolescent, I hope

                  C
Cause I have bones in my closet
                        Am             G
Saying that I lost it you know I try not to listen
              C
And when I thought that we were perfect
                              Am
I could see the difference and now I know what I'm missing, yeah
          Em                            Am
And you might have got the best of me and I'm still broken
right now
          F
Well time will tell the rest of it, so my story's yet to tell
            Em                         Am
And you might've gotten close to me and your all I think about
          F
Well better days are coming around

              C
Cause everyday it comes like drops in the ocean
              Am                G
When you say you're done is that really love?
G                 C                                    Am
When I move on, you'll say, oh how I've been searching for you

Em                           Am              F
Soon I'll be holding you right here in my arms
          Em                  Am            F
And I know that I wont be here for too long

              C
Still I don't wanna leave you dry
    C
No I don't wanna be that guy
              Am                  G
But I know you have your pride
                          C
And I've been running all through this town
            C
Thinking that you were where I am now
          Am                    G
And I'm so glad that I'm found, yeah
          Em                              F
And you might have got the best of me and I'm still broken
right now
          Am
Well, time will tell the rest of it so my story's yet to tell
              Em                              F
And you might've gotten close to me and your all I think about, well
Am
Better days are coming around

                      C
G Cause everyday it comes like drops in the ocean
              Am                G
When you say you're done is that really love?
          C                                          Am
G
When I move on, you'll say, oh how I've been searching for you
          C
And babe, when I get old I wont look I used to
          Am                    G
I'll be better off if I didn't choose you
              C                        Am   G
With a heavy heart I hope you find someone new

    Em                      F              Am
Soon I'll be holding you right here in my arms
          Em              F          Am
And I know that I won't be here for to long

                      C
Cause everyday it comes like drops in the ocean
              Am                G
When you say you're done is that really love?
              C                                      Am
G
When I move on, you'll say, oh how I've been searching for you
                              C
And babe, when I get old I wont look I used to
          Am              G
No I'll be better off if i didn't choose you
              C                      Am    G
With a heavy heart I hope you find someone new
