

Kelsea Ballerini - Baggage

tom:
 I don't pack light, I travel for a living, mm
 And I abide by that fifty pound limit
 On that Delta flight out west
 I'm there every other Wednesday
 But my heart ain't up in the air
 So if you want me
 Clear out a drawer, clear out a shelf
 I wouldn't wanna do it with anybody else
 Everything that's heavy, yeah, I check it at the door
 Kinda feel like I don't need it anymore
 I got some bones of old skeletons
 From the old house at the dead end
 I got baggage but I'm moving in
 We both slept on a mattress with "I love you" people, mm
 Shit, I even took it all the way to the steeple
 So, boy, I know the weight and gravity
 Of keychains with same keys
 But if you want that welcome mat, then roll it out with me, yeah
 Clear out a drawer, clear out a shelf
 I wouldn't wanna do it with anybody else
 Everything that's heavy, yeah, I check it at the door

Kinda feel like I don't need it anymore
 I got some bones of old skeletons
 From the old house at the dead end
 I got baggage but I'm moving in
 (If you want you want it)
 (You know that you got it)
 To those thoughts in your head
 My hand, back pocket of your jeans
 Linen sheets in our bed
 'Cause home is when you're with me, so
 Clear out a drawer, clear out a shelf
 I wouldn't wanna do it with anybody else
 Everything that's heavy, yeah, I check it at the door
 Kinda feel like I don't need it anymore
 I got some bones of old skeletons
 I've left the old house at the dead end
 I got baggage but I'm moving in (Unpacked boxes)
 (Half moved closet)
 (If you want it)
 (You know that you got it)
 Clear out a drawer, clear out a shelf
 I wouldn't wanna do it with anybody else
