

Kiss - Almost Human

```
Tom: Bb
                                                                                   ALMOST HUMAN
                                                                  [Main Riff 1.] (2x)
   Eb Tuning
                                                                  [Main Riff 1. w/Harmony Riff 1.]
Key:
     = slide up
     = slide down
١
     = bend (whole step)
                                                                  [Main Riff 1.] (2x)
h
                                                                  I'm almost human, can't help feelin' strange
h
     = bend (1/2 step)
pb
    = pre-bend
                                                                  The moon is out, I think I'm gonna change
     = release-bend
     = hammer-on
h
                                                                  [Rhvthm Fia 1.]
     = pull-off
                                                                  You're so smooth and tender, a living, breathing dream
р
     = Vibrato
                                                                  I've got to have you, baby, I'm listenin' for your scream
    = Natural Harmonic
   = Artficial Harmonic
                                                                  [Main Riff 1.] (2x)
                                                                  I'm almost human, I'm almost a man
This song is reminiscent of "GOD OF THUNDER". Cool Intro riff
                                                                 I'm almost human, ooh harmony guitar lines. The solo is just feedback and noise, so
                                                                  [Main Riff 1.] (2x)
                                                                  I'm almost human, baby please don't run away
I didn't bother to transcribe it. Turn on your Delay and do it your
                                                                  'Cause wherever you run I'll be a scream away way! I did do some of the licks between parts. Enjoy!
                                                                  [Solo Riff 1.]
                                                                  [Rhythm Fig 1.]
                                                                  I'm very hungry and you're what I'm thinkin' of Main Riff 1.
                                                                  Ooh baby, baby, baby, so hungry for your love
                                                                  [Main Riff 1.] (2x)
Harmony Riff 1.
                                                                  I'm almost human, oh, almost a man
                                                                  I'm almost human, whoo
                                                                  [End Riff 1.]
                                                                  [Solo w/Rhythm Fig 1.]
Rhythm Fig 1.
                                                                  [Rhythm Fig 1. w/Solo Riff 2.]
                                                                 I'm very hungry and you're what I'm thinkin' of Ooh baby, baby, baby, so hungry for your love
Fnd Riff 1.
                                                                  [Main Riff 1.] (Repeat Until Fade)
                                                                  I'm almost human, I'm almost a man
                                                                  I'm almost human, I'm almost human
                                                                  I\,\hbox{'m almost human, I'm almost human}
Solo Riff 1
                                                                  I'm almost human, almost, almost a man
                                                                  I'm almost human
                                                                 Almost, almost, almost, almost, almost human
                                                                 I'm almost human, I'm almost human
Solo Riff 2.
                                                                  I'm almost human, almost a man \,
                                                                  I'm almost human, almost, almost, almost
```

I'm almost human

Acordes

