

KT Tunstall - Yellow Flower

Tom: F
Intro: F Am Bb C

F
Still the pulse survives
Am
The conscious candour of our conversation
Bb
Lovely as you are
C
I see the strain, the pain, the degradation
F
Strips of light delightful
Am
Either side of bars so thick and wide
Bb
You hide them with a colourful sigh
Am
Falling at your feet in sheer joy that you were able to
Bb
Receive me like a favourite chair
A
Soaking up the tears if by magic it'll make me
Bb
Ever warmer even after you're not here
Bb
Could I be a boat for you a while?
Bb
Could I stay afloat for you and sail in your smile?
Bb
Could I be a boat for you
A
And ever gain this weight for you
Bb
C

Could I be a boat for you a while?
F
You are the yellow flower of my youth
Am
The scent of nothing wasted
Bb
With little left to prove
C
Oh graceful evergreen you take me
F
Over ever hill I've ever dream
Am
And others, just illusions
Bb
Only seeming to be
F
Falling at your feet in sheer joy that you were able to
Bb
Receive me like a favourite chair
A
Soaking up the tears if by magic it'll make me
Bb
Ever warmer even after you're not here
Bb
Could I be a boat for you a while?
Bb
Could I stay afloat for you and sail in your smile?
Bb
Could I be a boat for you
A
And ever gain this weight for you
Bb
Could I be a boat for you a while?
