

Lana Condor - Anyone Else But You (feat. Anthony de la Torre)

Hate that I'm hesitating
                            tom:
                                                                What's wrong inside my brain
Intro: G Em D
                                                                How come your loves so patient
Looking at you
                                                                I kind of feel insane
I get overwhelmed
                                                                I know that you're not faking
                                                                But I get in my own way
There's no one else in view
          Em
I need you now
                                                                Oh maybe I just need to hear you say (yeah)
Then you look at me
                                                                I don't want
Give me every reason
                                                                I don't want anyone else but you
That you need me to
                                                                Love when you
But I still doubt
                                                                Say that you, say that you
Hate that I'm hesitating
                                                                Want me too (want me too)
What's wrong inside my brain
                                                                I know better
                                                                Then to promise forever
How come your loves so patient
I kind of feel insane
                                                                But I don't want
I know that you're not faking
                                                                I don't want anyone ?lse but you
But I get in my own way
                                                                I just want you
Oh maybe I just need to hear you say
                                                                Ah, I just want you
I don't want
                                                                Ah, oh
I don't want anyone else but you
                                                                Ah, I just want you
Love when you
                                                                Ah, oh
Say that you, say that you
                                                                I don't want
Want me too
                                                                I don't want anyone else but you
I know better
                                                                Love when you
Then to promise forever
                                                                Say that you, say that you
But I don't want
                                                                Want me too (want me too)
I don't want anyone ?lse but you
                                                                I know better
I just want you
                                                                Then to promise forever
The moment w? met
                                                                But I don't want
All my friends were asking who I'm staring at
                                                                I don't want anyone ?lse but you
Yeah they know now
                                                                I just want you
You were wearing all black
                                                                Ah, I just want you
And the space between us wanted to collapse
                                                                Ah, oh
Like I do now
                                                                I just want you
