Leonard Cohen - Joan Of Arc

Tom: G To the one beneath the smoke "Why, I'm fire," he replied "And I love your solitude, I love your pride." Intro: G G D Now the flames they followed Joan of Arc La la la, la la la, la la, la la la la la la, la la la la la la С G As she came riding through the dark "Then fire, make your body cold Α D No moon to keep her armour bright I'm going to give you mine to hold," D Saying this she climbed inside Α No man to get her through this very smoky night To be his one, to be his only bride G D And deep into his fiery heart She said, "I'm tired of the war He took the dust of Joan of Arc And high above the wedding guests want the kind of work I had before He hung the ashes of her wedding dress Ι D Α La la la, la la la, la la la la la la A wedding dress or something white La la la la la la, la G D Α To wear upon my swollen appetite." It was deep into his fiery heart He took the dust of Joan of Arc D Am And then she clearly understood La la la, la la la, la la la la la la С G D G If he was fire, oh then she must be wood La la la la la la, la I saw her wince, I saw her cry Well, I'm glad to hear you talk this way You know I've watched you riding every day I saw the glory in her eye Myself I long for love and light And something in me yearns to win But must it come so cruel, and oh so bright? Such a cold and lonesome heroine La la la, la la la, la la, la "And who are you?" she sternly spoke
