

Lianne La Havas - Bittersweet

```
tom:
                Bbm
                                                                 And he couldn't get through
Intro: Bbm7 Cm7 Bbm7 Cm7
F7 Bbm7 Cm7 F7
                                                                 Cm7
                                                                 If we're good tomorrow
 Bbm7
                                                                 Does that make it true?
Please stop asking
                                                                Not completely
Do you still love me?
                                                                 We're picking that fight everyday
Don't have much to say
                                                                 Well, this shit's going nowhere, baby
Let's speak in the morning
Bbm7
Please don't do this
                                                                 Bittersweet summer rain
                                                                               Bbm7
                                                                 Cm7
I'm too far away
                                                                 I'm born again
                                                                              Cm7 Fm
Cm7
                                                                 Fm7
Don't know what to tell you, babe
                                                                 All my broken pieces
                                                                Bittersweet summer rain
                                                                             Bbm7 Bbm
No more hanging around, oh
                                                                 Cm7
                     Cm7 Fm7
                                                                 I'm born again, oh
No more hanging around, oh
                                                                          Cm7 Bbm7
     Cm7
                 Bbm7
Now my Sun's going down, oh
                                                                No more hanging around, oh
          Cm7
                                                                          Cm7
Telling me something isn't right
                                                                 No more hanging around, oh
                                                                            Bbm7
Something isn't right, oh
                                                                 Now my Sun's going down, oh
                                                                           Cm7
                                                                 Telling me something isn't right
Bittersweet summer rain
              Bbm7
                                                                 Oh, oh, oh
I'm born again
              Cm7
                                                                          Cm7 Bbm7
All my broken pieces
                                                                 No more hanging around, oh
                        Cm7
                                                                          Cm7
Bittersweet summer rain
                                                                 No more hanging around, oh
             Bbm7
                                                                          Bbm7
I'm born again, oh
                                                                Now my Sun's going down, oh
                                                                           Cm7
Cm7
                                                                 Telling me something isn't right
No more hanging around, oh
                                                                 Fm7
                                                                Oh, oh, oh
No more hanging around, oh
                                                                 Bbm7
Bbm7
                                                                 Bittersweet
                                                                Cm7 Fm7
Oh, oh
Now my Sun's going down, oh
          Cm7
Telling me something isn't right, oh
                                                                 [Final] Bbm7 Cm7 Bbm7 Cm7 F Cm
```

I slept all Friday

Acordes

