

Lisa Marie Presley - Sticks And Stones

```
It?s just her name
                          tom:
                                                           She looks bad
Intro: Dm F G
       Dm F G
                                                            She looks mad
                                                                    G
[Primeira Parte]
                                                           Why is she saying that
                                                           Dm
                                                           Why is she so angry and so mean
That girl I?ve seen her
                                                            I just don?t understand
I don?t care for her at all
                                                            [Refrão]
She got a silver spoon
And attitude
                                                            You can take my place
             Dm F G
                                                                   Gm
                                                            You?d do it better anyway
She got a wall
                                                               Dm
Why does she do this
                                                            But you better hide your bones
 G
Why is she doing that
                                                            From all the sticks and stones
She never smiles
                                                            So they don?t break
                                                            [Interlúdio] Dm F G
Dm F G
It?s all her fault
                                                                        Dm F G
         G
                                                                        Dm F G
That everything went bad
[Refrão]
                                                            [Refrão]
       Dm
                                                                   Dm
You can take my place
                                                           You can take my place
      Gm
You?d do it better anyway
                                                            You?d do it better anyway
   Dm
                                                                Dm
But you better hide your bones
                                                            But you better hide your bones
                                                            From all the sticks and stones
From all the sticks and stones
                                                                           Dm
So they don?t break
                                                            So they don?t take my place
                                                                   Gm
                                                            You?d do it better anyway
[Interlúdio] Dm F G
           Dm F G
                                                            But you better hide your bones
[Segunda Parte]
                                                            From all the sticks and stones
Too bad
                                                            So they don?t break
She ain?t just like her daddy
                                                            [Final] Dm F G Dm
                                                                   Dm F G Dm Dm F G Dm
  G Dm F G
Oh, what a shame
She?s got no talent of her own G Dm F G
Acordes
```