You don't need no friends
                                                                           Abm Gbm E
Get back your faith again
                                                              Darling, I believe, Oh Lord

You have the power to believe
                                                              Sometimes it's hard to breathe, Lord

Another dissident

Take back your evidence

It has no power to deceive

I don't need no one to tell me about heaven

I sit with them all night
Everything they say is right
                                                              I can see the sunset
But in the morning they were wrong
                                                               I can see the sunset
I'll be right by your side
                                                               I can see the sunset
Come hell or water high
