

LP - Die For Your Love

If I'm gonna give myself up
Intro: Em C G G Am
                                                          I will give myself up
Turn the lights up, nothin' to hide from
                                                          Even if I let myself go
      G G Am
Let's see those eyes
                                                          I will let myself go
     Fm
Turn your glance up, girl, just man up
                                                          Got the lust on my life
G G Am

It'll be alright
                                                          Got that will to survive
     Em
                                                                G
                                                          But I'd die for your, die for your love
Let's be old souls and sweep the low lows
    G G Am
Here unto dust
                                                          Yeah-eh-eh-oh-oh-oh
    Em
'Cause I'd take every bullet and fire and run through it
                                                          G G Dm
                                                          No eh-eh-eh-oh-oh-oh-oh
I'd die for you, die for your love
                                                          I would die for your, die for your, die for your love
If I'm gonna give myself up
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
     Am
I will give myself up
                                                           At least I'll go to Heaven
Even if I let myself go
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
I will let myself go
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
Got the lust on my life
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
                                                                         G
Got that will to survive
                                                           At least I'll go to Heaven
But I'd die for your, die for your love
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
Yeah-eh-eh-oh-oh-oh
                                                          (F Am G G C)
G G Dm
                                                          ( F Am )
No eh-eh-eh-oh-oh-oh-oh
I would die for your, die for your, die for your love
                                                          (Die for your, die for your love)
New beginnings, never-ending
      G G Am
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
Let's take a vow
                                                                         G G
                                                           At least I'll go to Heaven
To the living, forever giving
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
I can see that now
                                                                            G G
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
  Em
Let the time run, we'll let the warm sun be enough
        Em
'Cause there's no chance I won't take
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
                                                                            G
I'd burn at the stake
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
   G
I would die for your, die for your love
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
                                                          At least I'll go to Heaven
