G C G C G
Slow dancing on the boulevard in the quiet moments
D G
while the city's still dark.
G C G C G
Sleepwalking in the summer rain in the tired spaces
D G
you could hear her name.

C
When she was warm and tender and

Em
you pulled her arms around you
D G
There was nothing but her love and affection

C
She was crazy for you

Em D G C
Now she's part of something that you lost.

C Em D G C Em D G
And for all you know this could be

D G
the difference between what you need

Em C Em G
and what you want to be, yeah what you want to be

G C G C
Night swimming in her diamond dress making small

G D G
cirlces move across the surface.

G C G C
Stand watching from the steady shore, feeling wide

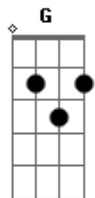

G D G
open and waiting for.

C Em
Something warm and tender now she's moving further from you

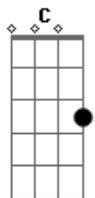

D G C
There was nothing that could make it easy on you

Em
Every step you take reminds you that
D G
she's walking on
C Em D G C Em D G
And for all you know this could be
C D G
the difference between what you need
Em C G
and what you want...
C D G
Every word you never said
C D G
Echos down your empty hallway
C D G D C
Everything that was your world just came down
G C G C G
Day breaking on the boulevard feel the sun warming
D G
up you secondhand heart
G C G C
Light swimming right across your face and you think
D C D
Maybe someday yeah, maybe someday
C Em D G C Em D G
And for all you know this could be
C D G
the difference between what you need
Em
and what you want...
C Em D G C Em D G
And for all you know For all you know
C D G
Yeah for all that you know
Em C Em
This is what you want to be, girl what you want to G
be
