

New Order - Age of Concent

Tom: D chords

Tabbed by me, Tristan Wells

One of my fav New Order songs of ALL TIME. It starts of the incredible ground breaking album Power, Corruption, and Lies. Now the lead riff and finnally here is the solo all on the same string...D in this song is bass but Im doing everything for guitar.
Intro:
Intro: guitar lead:

Now this is the Bass part behind the words tabbed for guitar

this is also a bass change you will hear snuck in the song through out now this is the great synth string part that begins the instrumental portion of the song and is also heard towards the end...I have tabbed it for guitar

only thing else that I can think of is he also gets funkdaified jammin on the D and G chord

By the way the whole song is D to G

This may sound crazy but if you get handy at it this song is a ton of fun to play on an acoustic. If you learn to cover or at least incorporate all of the different parts through out the song it will never leave the listener bored :) just experiment...try a 12 string or tunning down to dropped D...it should be fun
