        Em G D A
                                                                Around me? or else I'm just standing in the dark
                                                                   Thank God you found me? FOUND ME
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                  Because I'm broken and handing you my heart
The needle on my compass must be busted or bent
                                                                   When the night is surrounding? Need your light
'Cause I can't walk straight
                                                                Around me? or else I'm just standing in the dark
And I'm feelin' kinda beaten like the rusted out
                                                                        Or else I'm just standing in the dark
Hinges on the backyard gate
                                                                         Or else I'm just standing in the dark
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                               [Ponte]
                                                               (Em G D A)
Well everybody lies? too much
Hoping they can find true love
                                                                   You turn to me? as if to say
?Cause hell is what we all? go through
                                                                  Your turn to breathe as the shadows drift away
To try and find an angel like you? Woah-oh
                                                                   You can't explain? You just let go
[Refrão 1]
                                                                  Of all the pain that the world will never know
  Thank God you found me? FOUND ME
                                                                   You turn to me? as if to say
  Because I'm broken and handing you my heart
                                                                  Your turn to breathe as the shadows drift away
   When the night is surrounding? Need your light
                                                                   You can't explain? You just let go
 Around me? or else I'm just standing in the dark
                                                                   Of all the pain that the world will never know
   When the night is surrounding? Need your light
                                                               [Refrão 3]
 Around me? or else I'm just standing in the dark
         Or ELS? I'M JUST STANDING IN THE DARK
                                                                  Thank God you found me? FOUND ME
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                  Because I'm broken and handing you my heart
                                                                   When the night is surrounding? Need your light
 My soul's got holes like a shotgun
                                                                Around me? or else I'm just standing in the dark
 Pattern on a highway sign
                                                                   Thank God you found me? FOUND ME
 And the lady on the radio can stick this damn rain
                                                                  Because I'm broken and handing you my heart
 Where the sun don't shine
                                                                   When the night is surrounding? Need your light

                                                                Around me? or else I'm just standing in the dark
 Well everybody lies? too much
                                                               [Final]
 Hoping they can find true love
 ?Cause hell is what we all? go through
                                                                  You turn to me? as if to say
 To try and find an angel like you? Woah-oh
                                                                 Or else I'm just standing in the dark

                                                                 Or else I'm just standing in the dark
