

Nira Sol - Sweet Surrender

```
Should I have some hope
                tom:
Intro: Dm Bb
                                                                 Or do I have to quit?
        Dm Bb
                                                                 How did you feel when you gave me that inevitable kiss?
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                 I felt I was in heaven
The rain is falling down
                                                                 I can still remember
Your voice surrounds my soul
                                                                 I know I'm ready for the last sweet surrender
You bring me back to love
                                                                 [Solo] F C Dm Bb Dm Bb
When I was feeling cold
                                                                 [Terceira Parte]
So many times my dreams
                                                                 Destiny creates things
Have ended all in vain
                                                                 We never can expect
But now I want to try
                                                                 Each little choice we make
I?ll try once again
                                                                 Builds what the future sends
[Refrão]
                                                                 We might have some troubles
Should I have some hope
                                                                 But it doesn?t matter
                                                                 Are you ready for the last sweet surrender?
Or do I have to quit?
How did you feel when you gave me that inevitable kiss?
                                                                 [Refrão Final]
I felt I was in heaven
                                                                 Should I have some hope
I can still remember
                                                                 Or do I have to quit?
I know I'm ready for the last sweet surrender
                                                                 How did you feel when you gave me that inevitable kiss?
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                 I felt I was in heaven
Destiny creates things
                                                                 I can still remember
                                                                 I know I'm ready for the last sweet surrender
We never can expect
Each little choice we make
                                                                 Should I have some hope
Builds what the future sends
                                                                 Or do I have to quit?
We might have some troubles
                                                                 How did you feel when you gave me that inevitable kiss?
But it doesn?t matter
                                                                 I felt I was in heaven
Are you ready for the last sweet surrender?
                                                                 I can still remember
[Refrão]
                                                                 I know I'm ready for the last sweet surrender
Acordes
                         ukulele-chords.com
                                      ukulele-chords.com
```