

Nolan Sotillo - Drown

```
Intro: Dbm A E B x2
                                                                        A B I'm teriffied
I never wanted to fall in love
Dbm A E B
But you came and swept me off my feet
Dbm A E B
The way you look into my eyes
Dbm A E B
It kills me
                                                                        And I've got nowhere to hide
                                                                         A E B
                                                                        Love is deep like an ocean
                                                                        Dbm A E
                                                                        And your waves throw me around

Dbm A E B

Hurts my heart when we're apart

Dbm A E B

It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown

Dbm A E B Dbm A

It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown
Dbm A
It's something 'bout the way you smile
Dbm A E B
And I can't help but love the way you laugh Dbm A E B
The playful way you call me out
Dbm A E B
It's everything
                                                                        I take my last breath

E
B
A
Yeah you took me by surprise
Dbm A E B
Caught up in the rising tide
Dbm A E B
Lost at sea no coast in sight
A B
I'm teriffied
                                                                         I'm in over my head
                                                                         E B A
                                                                        As it come-comes over me
                                                                          E B
                                                                        I'm sinking slowly
And I've got nowhere to hide
                                                                        Love is deep like an ocean
                                                                        Dbm A E
  A E B
Love is deep like an ocean
                                                                        And your waves throw me around Dbm A E B
Dbm A E
                                                                        Hurts my heart when we're apart
And your waves throw me around
Dbm A E B
Hurts my heart when we're apart
                                                                        It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown

Dbm A E B

It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown
Dbm A E B
It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown
Dbm A E B Dbm A E
It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown
                                                                         It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown
B Dbm A E B
                                                                        It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown Yeah!
I'm gonna drown
                   Е
I like being the one in control
Dbm A E B
                                                                        Love is deep like an ocean
                                                                        Dbm A E
Always so afraid of letting go
                                                                        And your waves throw me around
Dbm A E B
But the moment you came into my life
                                                                        Dbm A E B
Hurts my heart when we're apart
                                                                        Dbm A E B
It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown
Dbm A E B
Dbm A E B
You changed me
                 Е
                                                                        It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown
Yeah you took me by surprise Dbm A E B
                                                                        It feels like, feels like I'm gonna drown
