Clouds are marching along
                                                                Oh if you just knew
Singing a song, just like they do
                                                                What would they do
If the clouds were singing a song
                                                                       Eb
I'd sing along, wouldn't you too?
                                                                And if words are just hollow the birds flying along
                                                                Singing a song

                                                                What would they do
What they could do
                                                                If they just knew
Oh, if you just knew
What would they do
                                                                What we could do
                                                                Oh if they just knew
And if the birds are just hollow words
                                                                I know its sad that I never gave a damn about the weather

Just like they do
                                                                And it never gave a damn about me
If the clouds were playing a song
                                                                        Ebm
I'd play along wouldn't you to
