

Paramore - Crave

```
tom:
                                                                         Db (forma dos acordes no tom de A )
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      [Refrão]
Capostraste na 4º casa
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          С
                                     [Primeira Parte]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Now I crave, crave
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      To do it again, all again
I can't wait to memorize this day \ensuremath{\mathsf{I}}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Crave, crave
Oh, a picture could not contain the way it feels
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     To do it again, ah
You say, "Live in the present"
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      Just for a second, it all felt simple
I'm already dreaming of how it begins
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      I'm already missing it
And trying to savor the moment
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     So I crave, crave
But I know the feelin' will come to an end
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      To do it again, all again
[Refrão]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      (Em D C D)
                   С
So I crave, crave
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      [Ponte]
To do it again, all again
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Any second, feel the present
Crave, crave
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Future and the past connecting
To do it again, ah
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Any second, feel the present
Just for a second, it all felt simple
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Future and the past connecting
I'm already missing it
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      [Refrão]
So I crave, crave
                                     Rm
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Crave, crave
To do it again, all again
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      To do it again, to do it all again
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Crave, crave
I romanticize even the worst of times % \left( 1\right) =\left( 1\right) \left( 1\right) \left
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     To do it again, ah
When all it took to make me cry was being alive
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      Just for a second, it all felt simple
Look up and see a reflection
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      I'm already missing it
Of someone who never gave way to the pain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      So I crave, crave
What if I told 'em that now that I'm older
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            Bm
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      To do it again, all again
Acordes
                           DЬ
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     <sub>o</sub> En
                                                                                                                                                                   ukulele-chords.com
```

There isn't a moment that I'd wanna change