

Pink - Mean

Tom: E

Always sentimental when I think of how it was (intro) E B A
                                                               When love was sweet and new and we just couldn't get enough
                                                               The shower, it reminds me you'd undress me with your eyes
(verse 1)
                                                               And now you never touch me and you tell me that you're tired
You used to hold the door for me, now you can't wait to leave
                                                               You know, I get so sad when it all goes bad
                                                               And all you think about is all the fun you had
You used to send me flowers if you fucked up in my dreams
                                                               And all those sorries ain't never gonna mean a thing, oh
I used to make you laugh with all the silly shit I did
                                                               How did we get so mean?
                                                               How do we just move on?
                                                               How do you feel in the morning when it comes and everything's
But now you roll your eyes and walk away and shake your head undone?
                                                               Is it cause we wanna be free? Well that's not me
When the spark has gone, and the candles are out
                                                               Normally I'm so strong
                                                               I just can't wake up on the floor like a thousand times before
      Abm
When the song is done and there's no more sound
                                                               Knowing that forever won't be
Whispers turn to yellin and I'm thinkin
                                                               Oh, we said some things that we can never take back
(chorus)
                                                               It's like a train wreck tryna hit the right track
How did we get so mean?
                                                               We opened up the wine and we just let it breathe,
How do we just move on?
                                                               But we shoulda drank it down while it was still sweet
How do you feel in the morning when it comes and everything's undone?
                                                               It all goes bad eventually
Is it cause we wanna be free? Well that's not me
                                                               Now do we stay together cause we're scared to be alone?
Normally I'm so strong
                                                               We got so used to this abuse, it kind of feels like home
I just can't wake up on the floor like a thousand times before
                                                               But, my baby, I just really wanna know, oh,
Knowing that forever won't be
                                                               (chorus)
Acordes

(verse 2)
