Post Malone - Leave

```
Tom: Gb
                                                                     Gbm
m
                                                                    F
           [Primeira Parte]
                                                                     Gbm
          Gbm
She said, "love me," so I love her
                                                                       Gbm
          Gbm
She said, "leave me," so I left
                                                                    Gbm
     Gbm
Then I went to California
                                                                      E
                       Gbm
          E Bm
And I ain't never comin' back
                                                                        F
      Gbm
I gotta high five from a brother
                                                             [Refrão]
     Gbm
I got bloodstains on the bed
          Gbm
                                                             F.
                                                                    Bm
And I ain't sayin' that I love her
       F
                  Bm Gbm
But this bitch is gonna drive me mad
                                 Gbm
          F
                         Bm
I said this bitch is gonna drive me mad
[Refrão]
F .
      Bm
                               Gbm
You got just what I been looking for
                                                                         E
                                                             And I wish I could
But you can't bring yourself to say no
                               Bm
And I ain't never gonna let you go
                                                                   Bm
                         Gbm
I kept wishing I would die, oh
                     F
The whole plane ride home
            F
And I wish I could
     Gbm
I know I should leave you alone
[Segunda Parte]
                                                             And I wish I could
 Gbm
```

I worship since I met you Gbm

Acordes

I fell down to my knees Gbm And when no one would accept ya E Bm Gbm Throw myself up on a cross and bleed Gbm I seen a dark cloud coming over Gbm I seen some evil shit in her head Gbm But she rode me like no other E Bm Gbm But this bitch is gonna drive me mad E Bm Gbm I said this bitch is gonna drive me mad

Gbm You got just what I been looking for But you can't bring yourself to say no Bm And I ain't never gonna let you go Gbm I kept wishing I would die, oh F The whole plane ride home Gbm I know I should leave you alone Ghm You got just what I been looking for But you can't bring yourself to say no Bm And I ain't never gonna let you go Gbm I kept wishing I would die, oh E The whole plane ride home I know I should leave you alone