                                                              Come on,

                                                              its getting better.
                                                              Looks like we're in for warm weather
                                                                               G
                                                                                     C Em
                                                              for the next three billion years.
the day is ending.
                                 G

And we are tired from walking over and under this town.
                                                              Are we shy?, are we setting new ground?
                                                                                  Em
                                                              Are we high when we're watching downtown?
Look here,
the fight is starting.
                                                              Are we different?
As we near the people are parting.
                                                              Are we different?
       G
Oh my, my tired soul
                                                              Are we different?
Are we shy?, are we setting new ground?
                                                              Are we gonna figure this out?
                     Em
                                                              Are we gonna figure this out?
Are we high when we're watching downtown?
Are we different?

                                                              Are we shy?, are we setting new ground?
Look close,
                                                              Are we high when we're watching downtown?
your face is changing.
Like most its only aging from all these tired tears.
                                                              Are we different?
