

Ramones - The Return Of Jack And Judy

```
Tom: C
                                                                Didn't have a backstage pass
                                                                0h-yeah
R
                                                                And oh, I don't know why
Jackie is a punk,
Judy is a runt
They went down to the Mudd Club
                                                                she wrote that letter, Oh no, oh no
And they both got drunk
                                                                                Gb
                                                                Oh I don't know why
E Gb
Oh-yeah, oh oh
                                                                          Abm
                                                                We won't forget her, oh no
Jackie is a bookie,
Judy's taking loans
                                                                Dont't know what's on her mind
They both came up to New York
Just to see the Ramones
0h-yeah
                                                                I don't know, no, I don't know
                                                                But I can't stand to see her cryin'
And oh, I don't know why
                                                                She's still cryin', she ain't tryin'
she wrote that letter, Oh no, oh no
                                                                She's going to get left behind
                                                                                                    Abm Gb
               Gb
Oh I don't know why
                                                                Nobody wants you, nobody wants you
          Abm
We won't forget her, oh no
                                                                Jackie is a punk...
                                                                Jackie's playing...
                                                                And oh, I don't...
Jackie's playing hooky
Judy's playing pool
                                                                Oh I don't know why
They both got caught for cutting
                                                                Oh I don't know why
Got to go to summer school
                                                                Oh I don't know why
                                                                Oh I don't know why
0h-yeah
                                                                Oh I don't know why
Jackie's scalping tickets
Judy's getting harassed
                                                                ( fade out )
They both got kicked outside
```

Acordes

