

RAYA - Falling Into Love

```
Every chapter?s painted with your love tom:
                                                                                              A Bm
Intro: A Gbm E A D
                                                                           Your touch is a whisper, warm and kind
                                                                           You?ve opened my heart, you?ve freed my mind
I never knew the sky could shine so bright

E Gbm E
Till you walked in and filled my life with light E = \frac{C}{C}
                                                                           I'm falling into love, can?t you see?

E D A E Gbm
Every heartbeat feels like a brand-new song D Gbm E A
With you beside me, where I belong
                                                                          It?s a kind of magic, setting me free E D A D
                                                                           You?re the reason my heart feels alive
                                                                          With you, I'm soaring, I'm ready to dive
Oh, the world feels like it's spinning slow
                                                                          Through the highs, through the lows
Every moment with you, I want to know
Your smile?s a melody, soft and true
                                                                           Together, wherever life goes
And every note, it leads me back to you
                                                                          You?re my anchor, you?re my wings
                                                                          With you, life?s a song that sings
I'm falling into love, can?t you see?

E D A E
It?s a kind of magic, setting me free
E D A D
                                                                          I'm falling into love, can?t you see?

E D A E Gbm
                                                                          It?s a kind of magic, setting me free E D A Bm A
You?re the reason my heart feels alive

A Bm E Gbm
        Bm
                                                                          You?re the reason my heart feels alive D
With you, I'm soaring, I'm ready to dive
                                                                          With you, I'm soaring, I'm ready to dive
Every word you say feels like a dream

D

Gbm

E
                                                                           Falling into love, it feels so true
You?ve turned my life into a sparkling stream
                       F
Even shadows dance when you?re around

D Gbm
E
A
In your laughter, I?ve finally found
                                                                           Every moment, I choose you
                                                                          With you, my world?s a brighter place
D E Gbm
                                                                           Forever in your warm embrace
Oh, the stars, they write our story above
Acordes
                                         wkulele-chords.com
            ukulele-chords.com
                             ukulele-chords.com
```