

Rod Stewart - Hold The Line

```
Hold the line we'll survive
Intro: C Em Am F
                                                           So let's just smile through the rain
[Verse 1]
                                                           Through the heartache and pain
Hold on we just have to hold on
                                                           Hold the line we'll survive
         Am
We don't have to cry, no not tonight
                                                           We'll survive
I know lately everything seems crazy
          Am
People walking by just getting by
                                                           Hold the line
And I just wanna rest my head
                                                          We'll survive
And lay down with roses on our bed
                                                                       la la la
  Dm C
            G
                                                           La la la
They say heaven can wait
                                                                         Em
                                                              la la la la
                                                                                  la
You and I, we'll survive
                                                           Hold the line
[Chorus]
                                                           We'll survive
Sometimes we're lost and astray
                                                           [Break] G Am F G Am F G Am C Dm Em F C
And the hope far away, hold the line
                                                           [Bridge]
We'll survive
                                                           Hold on we just have to hold on
So let's just smile through the rain
         Am
                                                           We don't have to cry
Through the heartache and pain
                                                           No, not tonight
       Am
Hold the line we'll survive
                                                           I know lately everything seems crazy
We'll Survive
                                                                 Am
                                                           People walking by getting by
Hold the line (Hold the line)
                                                           Sometimes we're lost and astray
                                                                 Em
We'll survive (Hold the line)
                                                           And the hope far away
[Verse 2]
                                                                   Am
                                                           Hold the line we'll survive
Slow down we just have to slow down

Am

F
                                                           So let's just smile through the rain
Now?s becoming fast, way too fast
                                                                    Em
 C
                                                           Through the heartache and pain
Another grey day, technicolour save me
                                                                   Am
                                                           Hold the line, we'll survive
Paint it in the sky, we're alive
                                                           C Em
We'll survive, oh yeah
 Dm C G
And I just wanna rest my head
                                                           Hold the line
         G
And lay down with roses in our bed Dm C G
                                                           We'll survive
They say heaven can wait
F G
You and I, we'll survive
                                                           La la la la la
                                                                         {\sf Em}
[Chorus]
                                                           Hold the line
              C
Sometimes we're lost and astray
    Em
                                                           We'll survive
And the hope far away
       Am
                                                           We'll survive
```

Acordes

