

Sabrina Carpenter - Don't Worry I'll Make You Worry

```
[Pré-refrão]
                tom:
$^{\rm D}$ (forma dos acordes no tom de {\rm Db} ) Capostraste na 1^{\rm a} casa
                                                                  But on the forty-minute drive home (Wow)
Intro: C F Dm F
                                                                You're internalizing my jokes (Mmm)
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                And your mother even agrees (Ah, ah)
                                                                              Em
                                                                That emotional lottery is all you'll ever get with me (Ah)
 You think that I'm gonna fuck with your head?
Well, you're absolutely right
                                                                [Refrão]
 Your perfect timing couldn't be worse
                                                                        C F
                                                                So don't worry
Actually, it's impressive how you don't read signs
                                                                I'll make you worry like no other girl can
[Pré-refrão]
                                                                So don't worry
 And I'll never call you right back
                                                                Damn sure I'll never let you know where you stand
But when I do, I'm making you laugh
                                                                [Pós-refrão]
Then I'll bitch you out when I please
                                                                Ah-ah-ah, ah-ah, ah-ah (Ah, ah)
I still think you love me
                                                                Ah-ah-ah, ah-ah, ah-ah (Ah, ah)
[Refrão]
                                                                Ah-ah-ah, ah-ah, ah-ah (Ah, ah)
                                                                Ah-ah-ah, ah-ah, ah-ah (Ah, ah)
So don't worry
                                                                           N.c
                                                                Hope you're feeling lucky
I'll make you worry like no other girl can
                                                                [Refrão]
So don't worry
Damn sure I'll never let you know where you stand
                                                                So don't worry
                                                                I'll make you worry like no other girl can
                                                                        СF
                                                                So don't worry
Ah-ah-ah, ah-ah, ah-ah (Ah, ah)
                                                                I'll leave you feeling like a shell of a man
Ah-ah-ah, ah-ah, ah-ah (Ah, ah)
                                                                [Final]
[Segunda Parte]
Silent treatment and humblin' your ass
           Dm
Well, that's some of my best work
                                                                (Don't worry)
 Thought sleeping with you might help me decide
But it was annoyingly good, so thanks for making it worse
                                                                Ah (Don't worry)
Acordes
```