

Sail North - Broken Mast Bay

tom: Dm [Refrão]

Ooh, Broken Mast Bay
 Where the balladeers play
 And the spirits never sleep
 Where the whispers call
 And the legends crawl
 Through the veil of the ocean deep

[Primeira Parte]

The night was still
 And the air was stale
 And the stench of ale ran high
 And it flowed from a pub across a cobblestone street
 Where a sailor was passing by
 Oh, he drank his fill and he sang his song
 As the room began to sway
 Then he stumbled down the road to the water's edge
 Of a place called Broken Mast Bay

[Refrão]

Ooh, Broken Mast Bay
 Where the balladeers play
 And the spirits never sleep
 Where the whispers call
 And the legends crawl
 Through the veil of the ocean deep

[Segunda Parte]

With a dizzy head and a daring heart
 And a dingy on the shore
 In his drunken glee he put out to sea
 And he rowed to the Mists of Nore
 As he rowed along he could hear a song
 From a voice so pure and clear
 Then a selkie rose right beside his boat
 As her voice echoed in his ear

[Refrão]

Ooh, Broken Mast Bay
 Where the balladeers play
 And the spirits never sleep
 Where the whispers call

And the legends crawl
 Through the veil of the ocean deep

[Terceira Parte]

Come again? said he, how can this be?
 Have I had too much to drink?
 Not at all, she sighed with a sparkle in her eyes
 I'm as true as the ocean is deep
 Why sail alone, my sailor bold, on this quiet moonlit night?
 The sailor gawked as she whispered soft
 Please stay with me till light

[Refrão]

Ooh, Broken Mast Bay
 Where the balladeers play
 And the spirits never sleep
 Where the whispers call
 And the legends crawl
 Through the veil of the ocean deep

[Ponte]

She shed a tear as he slurred his words
 Telling tales of life before
 How his friends were swallowed in the treacherous swells
 When they were claimed by the ocean floor

[Quarta Parte]

He wiped his eyes as the dawn advanced
 On a tired wakeless world
 Then she left a gift in his calloused hand
 'Twas a pendant made of pearl
 Hold this close when the road feels long
 And the waves don't flow your way
 When you feel alone listen for my voice on the winds of Broken Mast Bay

[Refrão]

Ooh, Broken Mast Bay
 Where the balladeers play
 And the spirits never sleep
 Where the whispers call

And the legends crawl
 Through the veil of the ocean deep
 Ooh, Broken Mast Bay
 Where the balladeers play
 And the spirits never sleep
 Where the whispers call
 And the legends crawl
 Through the veil of the ocean deep

[Final]

The years sailed on and the selkie's song
 Became a memory on the wind
 And the gift she gave found a shallow grave
 In a box where his memories lived
 Until one day in the village square
 He heard a voice that he once knew
 When he turned around he saw the sparkle in her eyes
 Old friend, I've been waiting for you
