

Sarah Kang - All Over Again

tom:

A

What if I'd never met you

I wonder what I'd be up to

Where would I be and with what kind of view

What if there are other me's

Somewhere out in the galaxy

I let myself daydream

'Cause maybe there's some other universe

I'd put it all in reverse

If only I could I would turn back the clock

To before I ever knew you and then

I'd still end up at that same old restaurant

And fall for you all over again

All over again

You and I were magnetized

Connected by the great divine

Tiny electrons always intertwined

And if I had a hundred million lives

With infinitely different storylines

It would be you every time

If only I could I would turn back the clock

To before I ever knew you and then

I'd still end up at that same old restaurant

And fall for you all over again

All over again and again and again

And I've fallen again

Maybe there's some other universe

I'd still go after you first

If only I could I would turn back the clock

To before I was yours and then

I'd (you'd) put on that same white dress and walk to you (me)

To say yes all over again

I'd fall for you all over again
