

Sarah Mclachlan - Forgiveness

tom:
 Capotraste na 3ª casa
 Loving lying enemy
 I have seen your face before
 Never thought again I'd see
 Didn't want to anymore
 I remember your loving eyes
 And the moonlit kiss
 The evening lullabies I will truly miss
 Through the years we had it all
 Midnight whispers, the midday calls
 This house of call it had to fall
 And you ask for forgiveness
 You're asking too much
 I have sheltered my heart in a place you can't touch
 Don't believe when you tell me your love is real
 'Cause you don't know much about heaven boy
 If you have to hurt to feel
 Every time I see you
 I can't help but look away
 All along I had believed everything you'd say
 When I look now I know I've seen your face before

Don't want your deceiving smile
 Standing at my door
 And I don't care what people say
 I'm ready now to face this day
 'Cause I have lost you along the way
 And you ask for forgiveness
 You're asking too much
 I have sheltered my heart in a place you can't touch
 Don't believe when you tell me your love is real
 'Cause you don't know much about heaven boy
 If you have to hurt to feel

 'Cause you don't know much about heaven boy
 If you have to hurt
 And you ask for forgiveness
 You're asking too much
 I have sheltered my heart in a place you can't touch
 Don't believe when you tell me your love is real
 'Cause you don't know much about heaven boy
 If you have to hurt to feel
