

Sepultura - Show Me The Wrath

```
Tom: C
                                                           NOTE:
                                                            -First time, Single guitar plays Riff A
  From: Kevin Phillips
                                                            -Second time, Bassrumsuitar 2 plays Muted {\ensuremath{\textbf{E}}} in time with riff SHOW ME THE WRATH
off the album MORBID VISIONS
                                                            -E chord for about 4 bars
                                                            -Riff B x 4
TAB by Kevin Phillips,
Here is some more thrashy stuff from my ancient tab
                                                            Verse:
collection. Probably full of mistakes, but hell.. Should give most of you an idea
                                                            -Riff B x 4
                                                            -Riff C x 4
what to play.
If you fix anything, please email me so I can update my
                                                            -Riff B x 4
                                                            -Riff C x 4
originals..
As always, I put all the riffs first, then I put the structure Chorus:
of the song
after it. This way you can concentrate on learning the riffs
                                                            -Riff D x 2
then when you've
                                                            -Open Low E string picked real fast! (Like Riff D, but open E!)
sussed them out get into putting them together. (x = Palm)
                                                            Could also add second guitar playing chunky PM'd E's on beat!
mute)
Enjoy!
                                                            -Riff B \times 4 8)
                                                            Verse:
SHOW ME THE WRATH - RIFFS
                                                            -Riff B x 4
Riff A:
                                                            -Riff C x 4
                                                            Chorus:
Riff B:
                                                            -(As Above!)
  x \times x \times x \times x \times x
Riff C:
                                                            -(Second Guitar - Palm muted E on beats!)
  X X X X X X
                                                            Lead Break:
Riff D:
                                                            -Riff F x 4
  ΧХ
                                                            -Riff G
Riff E:
                                                            -Riff C x 4
Riff F:
                                                            Verse:
                                                            -Riff B x 4
  -Riff C x 4
XXXXXXXXXXXXXXX
Riff G: (Listen to tape for correct timing)
                                                            Chorus:
                                                            -(As before - Look previous!)
SHOW ME THE WRATH - STRUCTURE:
Intro: duction:
                                                            Fnd:
-Riff A x 6
                                                            -Riff E x 2
                                                           Viola! Simple stuff huh! (How's that wrist feeling?! >8) )
```

Acordes

