

Sleeping With Sirens - Here We Go

```
Tom: G
Intro: Em
                                                                The past is past, move on to better things.
So here we go
You got one more chance to make it
                                                                Now is my time and I'm ready to go.
Better not lose control, before everyone forgets your name.
                                                                Chorus:
                                                               Here we go, we got one more chance to make it
(Em D Am)(2x)
Verse 1:
                                                                Better not lose control
This will always be mine
                                                                Before everyone forgets your name.
So much more then just a dream to me
                                                               Here we go, we got one more chance to make it
I will never be fine, with letting you ruin everything
                                                                Better not lose control
I will never fucking follow your lead
                                                                Before everyone, everyone forgets your name!
Give up on you, so you can take it out on me
                                                                Bridge:
                                                               This is your time, you better take it
I'm sorry that you had to watch your life come tumbling down.
                                                                You better never let it go
Now it's my time and I'm ready to go.
                                                                This is your time, you better make it
                   D
                                                                It could be gone before you know.
Here we go, we got one more chance to make it
                                                                (Em C D)(2x)
          Am
Better not lose control
                                                                (Don't pick it up!)
                                                                (Em C D)(2x)
Before everyone forgets your name.
Here we go, we got one more chance to make it
                                                                So here we go, you got one more chance to make it
          Αm
Better not lose control
                                                               You better think before
Before everyone forgets your name.
                                                                You go and throw it all away!
( Em D Em Am )
                                                                Chorus:
Verse 2:
                                                                Here we go, we got one more chance to make it
You've always been the one to criticize
                                                                Better not lose control
Me, because I'm not like you, you see
                                                                Before everyone forgets your name.
The way you've been living your life
                                                                Here we go, we got one more chance to make it
There's nothing there worth holding onto.
                                                                Better not lose control
I will never fucking understand the hate you have for me
                                                                Before everyone forgets your name
I only have one shot at this
                                                                (Em D Am)
```

Acordes

