

Taylor Swift - Fifteen / You?re On Your Own, Kid

You're on your own, kid, you always have been [Intro] D G Bm G
                                                               (GADBm)
You take a deep breath and you
Walk through the doors
                                                               When all you wanted was to be wanted
Its the morning of your very first day
                                                              Wish you could go back

D

A
You say hi to your friends you aint seen in a while
                                                               And tell yourself what you know now
Try and stay out of everybodys way
                                                              What you know now
It's your freshman year and you're gonna be here
For the next four years in this town
                                                               From sprinkler splashes to fireplace ashes
Hoping one of those
                                                               I gave my blood, sweat and tears for this
Senior boys will wink at you and say
                                                               I hosted parties and starved my body
                                                               Like I'd be saved by a perfect kiss
You know I haven't seen you around, before
                                                               The jokes weren't funny, I took the money
'Cause when you're fifteen and
                                                               My friends from home don't know what to say
Somebody tells you they love you
                                                               I looked around in a blood-soaked gown
You're gonna believe them
                                                               And I saw something they can't take away
And when you're fifteen
                                                               'Cause there were pages turned
Feeling like there's nothing to figure out
                                                               With the bridges burned
Well count to ten, take it in Everything you lose is a step you take
This is life before you know who you're gonna be
                                                               So make the friendship bracelets
At fifteen
                                                               Take the moment and taste it
(DGBmG)
                                                               You've got no reason to be afraid
 I see the great escape, so long, Daisy May
                                                               You're on your own, kid
 I picked the petals, he loves me not
                                                                Yeah, you can face this
 Something different bloomed, writing in my room
                                                               You're on your own, kid
 I play my songs in the parking lot
                                                               You always have been
I'll run away
                                                               ( G A )
From sprinkler splashes to fireplace ashes
                                                               Your very first day
I called a taxi to take me there
                                                               Take a deep breath girl
I search the party of better bodies
                                                               Take a deep breath as you
Just to learn that my dreams aren't rare
                                                               Walk through the doors
