(solo - intro e ao decorrer da música)
                                                                Not when she hugs and says she loves me so
She's got the devil in her heart
                                                                 She'll never hurt me
But her eyes they tantalize
                                                                 She won't desert me
She's gonna tear your heart apart
                                                                 Listen can't you see
