

The Cure - Fascination Street

Tom: F

This is the riff that opens up the song and appears near the end of the song:

After this riff is played three times, the keyboard riff that appears is:

This is played two times, then the drums come in and then a weird effect appears, I think it is harmonics played like:

This appear throughout the song, also with a staccato C note played on the fifth fret of the G string, during the song.

The main part of the song, is mainly the bass riff which repeats itself over and over again for eight minutes of the song. If you don't know already s indicates a slide, p indicates a pull-off and ~ indicates tremolo. Here is the bassline:

Another riff that appears in the song comes after the bassline initially plays two times, this riff is:

After that play a C chord. The next riff is that almost - solo- type riff but it's not. This is it:

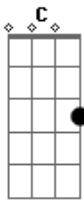

Now, before Smith comes in with his vocals, that guitar line is (I am not sure if I play it an octave higher but here it is):
