

The Kinks - Do You Remember Walter?

Tom: Bb

C
Walter, remember when the world was young

Eb Bb
And all the girls knew Walter's name?

F Cm F Bb
Walter, isn't it a shame the way our little world has changed?

Cm D
Do you remember, Walter, playing cricket in the thunder and the rain?

G
Do you remember, Walter, smoking cigarettes behind your garden gate?

Ab Eb
Yes, Walter was my mate,

G F C
But Walter, my old friend, where are you now?

Eb Bb
Walter's name

F Cm F Bb
Walter, isn't it a shame the way our little world has changed?

Cm D

G
Do you remember, Walter, how we said we'd fight the world so we'd be free.

Cm D
G
We'd save up all our money and we'd buy a boat and sail away to sea.

Ab Eb
But it was not to be.

G F C
I knew you then but do I know you now?

C Eb Bb
Walter, you are just an echo of the world we knew so long ago

F Cm F Bb
If you saw me now you wouldn't even know my name.

Cm
I bet you're fat and married and

D G
you're always home in bed by half-past eight.

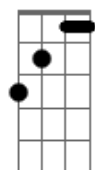

Cm
And if I talked about the old times

you'd get bored and you'll have nothing left to say.

Ab Eb G F C
Yes people often change, but memories of people can remain.
