

The Neighbourhood - Leaving Tonight

Tom: F it looked to me like all the sidewalks started walking Verse 1:
                                                               i swear to god the voices wouldn't shut up you fooled me from the start and i, i figured it all to be love when you let me start to love you but this isn't lovely it's like a bunch of broken picture frames but Chorus:
the photo still remains the same
                                                               Am E C F
                                                               oh no, oh we know, it's haunting me and i, i thought it would be easy to run making it harder to breathe, harder to breathe but my legs are broken
Chorus:
                                                               i'm leaving tonight, i'm leaving tonight, i'm leaving tonight
Am E C F
                                                               i'm leaving tonight, i'm leaving tonight
making it harder to breathe, harder to breathe
                                                               i'll be gone in the morning
                                                                                  \mathsf{Am}
                                                               making it harder to breathe, harder to breathe
i'll be gone in the morning
                                                               i'm leaving tonight, i'm leaving tonight, i'm leaving tonight i saw it from afar
but my eyes have always fooled me i'll be gone in the morning
