

The Wonder Years - Dismantling Summer

```
Hoping that you'll be all right
                             tom:
                {\sf Eb} (forma dos acordes no tom de {\sf E} )
                                                                  And I'll be there in the meantime
                             Afinação: Eb Ab Db Gb Bb Eb
Intro: E B A E B A
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                  I've been acting like I'm strong
I'm pulling wings off insects
                                                                  Dbm B
But the truth is, I've been losing ground
I'm peeling back my sunburnt skin
                                                                  To a hospital too crowded,
I'll wait outside your bedroom
                                                                  A summer winding down
I hope they let me in
                                                                  I hadn't seen a heartbreak until now
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                  I hadn't felt a heartbreak until now
I'm filling your prescriptions

B

A
                                                                  [Ponte]
The orange bottles stare me down
                                                                  If I'm in an airport
They're standing at attention
                                                                  And you're in a hospital bed
E B A
An army on your windowsill
                                                                  Well, then, what kind of man does that make me?
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                  If I'm in an airport
We're all waiting for good news
                                                                  And you're in a hospital bed
Hoping you can come home soon
                                                                  Well, then, what kind of man does that make me?
                                                                  If I'm in an airport
We're all waiting for good news
                                                                  If I'm in an airport
[Refrão]
                                                                  What kind of man does that make me?
I've been acting like I'm strong
Dbm B
But the truth is, I've been losing ground
                                                                  What kind of man does that make me?
                                                                  [Refrão]
To a hospital too crowded,
                                                                  I've been acting like I'm strong
A summer winding down
Dbm A B
I hadn't seen a heartbreak until now
                                                                  \begin{array}{ccc} & & & & B \\ & & & B \\ \text{But the truth is, I've been losing ground} \end{array}
I hadn't felt a heartbreak until now
                                                                  To a hospital too crowded,
(EBAEBA)
                                                                  A summer winding down
[Terceira Parte]
                                                                  I hadn't seen a heartbreak until now
                                                                  I hadn't felt a heartbreak until now
I grew up on your back porch
                                                                  Hadn't felt a heartbreak until now
And I watched the storms light up the clouds
                                                                  Hadn't felt a heartbreak
They hung like paper lanterns
                                                                         Dbm
                                                                  Oh the hospital's too crowded
To guide the way back toward your house
                                                                  The summer's winding down
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                  I haven't seen a heartbreak until now
                                                                  Well I haven't felt a heartbreak until now
I've been putting off long flights
```

Acordes

