Tom: C
Intro: C C F C
```
                C                        C
I thought I knew, the girl so well
F                 C
if she was sad, I couldn't tell
                           C
I missed the point, I missed the sings
F                           C
  so if she's gone, the fault is mine
  Dm                               C
I know, I know, a whole lot of little things
        Dm                        C
and even though, I could face them one by one G7sus
she would still be gone

Chorus
G7           C
   Her eyes are blue
             C her hair is long F sixty four
       C
she was born
      G            C
in Batton rouge
             C
the very song
```
```
                        F is in my life
           C      G        Am
I meorized her ev'ry move
           C                       F7M
I knew her books, her car, her clothes
         C       C       F          C    G
but I paid,   no  attention  to what mattered most

Verse 2
I never asked, she never said
And when she cried I turned my head
She dreamed her dreams behind closed doors
That made them easy to ignore
And I know, I know, I missed the forest for the trees
Now all I have to show
Or would she walk out the door?
The cold facts and nothin' more

Chorus

Chorus 2
Her eyes are blue, her hair is long,   sixy four she was born, in Batton Rouge,
Her father's tall, her mother's gone,
She moved out when she was two,
The way she laughed, the way she loved,
Oh my God what did I do?
