

Tyrone Wells - Already Fallin

Tom: F

Intro: F

I hear them say

You should take your time

Love's a crooked line you are

Just at the start with your whole life to come.

But I know how I feel

I know this is real you are

All that I want so I can't help but run

There goes my heart, there goes my head

That was the edge and I'm already falling

It happened so fast, like shattering glass

A beautiful crash, I'm already falling

I'm already falling, I'm already falling

Every time I see You

I can't believe my eyes

Your beauty runs deep

All the way to your soul

I

I cannot pretend I'm indifferent when I

Watch every move everywhere that you go

There goes my heart, there goes my head

That was the edge and I'm already falling

It happened so fast, like shattering glass

A beautiful crash, I'm already falling

I'm already falling, I'm already falling

And I am not afraid, I know before I land

As I'm reaching out I will find your hand

It's easy letting go, when in your heart you know

It's what you've waited for

I'm already falling

There goes my heart, there goes my head

That was the edge and I'm already falling

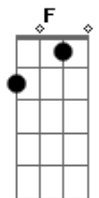

It happened so fast, like shattering glass

A beautiful crash, I'm already falling

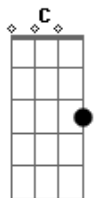

I'm already falling, I'm already falling

I'm already falling (falling for your love)
