

Us The Duo - There Is Only One You

```
'Cause there is only one you
                            tom:
                                                                I repeat my mistakes
I've waited, I've dated
                                                                Yeah I've made your heart break
I've played every game
                                                                When I mess up and lie
And I found this to always be true
                                                                You still stand by my side
There's billions of people that live in this world
But there is only?one you
                                                                You fix me when I'm broke
                                                                When I'm down you bring hope
I've been around the block
                                                                      Gb7
                                                                You're still hangin' on
You're the cream of the crop
                                                                'Cause that's what you do
No one gets me quite like you do
                                                                'Cause there is only one you
Awake or I'm dreaming
You're all that I'm seeing
                                                                No one else
                                                                       Gb
'Cause there is only one you
                                                                Loves me like you do
                                                                Your heart is resilient
I repeat my mistakes
                                                                You're one in a million
Yeah I've made your heart break
                                                                                Abm Db
                                                                There's only one you
When I mess up and lie
You still stand by my side
                                                                When the music stops playing
                                                                I'll always keep sayin'
You fix me when I'm broke
                                                                There is only one you
When I'm down you bring hope
      Gb7
You're still hangin' on
                                                                I repeat my mistakes
'Cause that's what you do
                                                                Yeah I've made your heart break
                                                                When I mess up and lie
'Cause there is only one you
                                                                You still stand by my side
I cuss and I drink
I speak without thinking
                                                                You fix me when I'm broke
I pretend like I ain't got no clue
                                                                When I'm down you bring hope
But you shut me up and you do it with love
                                                                       Gb7
                                                                You're still hangin' on
There is only one you
                                                                      Gb7
                                                                'Cause that's what you do
Never thought I would find one
                                                                'Cause there is only one you
                                                                That's what you, that's what you, that's what you do
But I found me a diamond!
And mama didn't raise no fool
                                                                'Cause there is only one you
So, I'll hold you close and I'll never let go
```

Acordes

