                                                               [Refrão]
[Primeira Parte]
                                                               My mood's dictated by our conversations
                     Dbm
                                                               And if you don't text I get too frustrated
I wish there was a situation to be mad at
                                                               I want you all to myself this time
Or a person I could blame
                                                                        Е
        Dbm
                                                               Conflicted looks good on me
I've got a loud mouth, I'm pale with a ghost obsession,
                                                                          Dbm
                                                               I'm trying desperately
But behind the scenes with her I'm playing 21 Questions
                                                               I want you all to myself this time
                    Α
There's gotta be a reason
                                                               [Ponte]
You keep your guy in hiding
       Dbm
I'm becoming what I've hated
                                                               We built a picture made for frames
                                                                                    F
But your talk is so inviting
                                                               We live in chemistry away from all the wasted time and taste
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                               And it sucks to sleep
   Dbm
                                                               'Cause you aren't talking to me
But then what?
                                                               I wanna give you space
You drop your guy and take me on
                                                               But the amount between us is wrecking me
It's everything I wanted
                                                               [Pré-Refrão]
   Dbm
But then what?
                                                               But then what?
Would you get tired of my time?

Carefully shape sentences
                                                                       В
                                                               Am I in his position now?
When I've got some words to say
                                                                  Dbm

They're falling from my mouth from the time
                                                               'Cause then what?
                                                                    В
                                                               You dropped your guy and took me on
That they hit my brain
                                                               It's everything I wanted
