

XAKOL - Runaway

```
(Gbm Abm A B C B? C#? D Eb )
                                                               Other point of view I need
                           tom:
Intro: Bm D Bm D
                                                               Kill all the thoughts I'm hiding
 Runaway from my illusions
                                                               Inside my doubtful mind
 All I try hard to conceal
                                                               Brush this filthy dust away
 No one encourages these obsessions
                                                               End my constant lust to Gb
 I still want to make them real
                                                               Runaway
 Gotta reach for that horizon
                                                               Always wish to run away
 After all there's just one chance
                                                               Never see any other way
                Gb Bm
 Yet I lack some confidence
                                                                    Gb
                                                                            Bm
                                                               In my puzzled mind
 Runaway
                                                               Vanishing
 Always wish to run away
                                                               In the darkness
 Never see any other way
    Gb
              Bm
                                                               All must fade
 In my puzzled mind
                                                               Do you wish to run away
 Vanishing
                                                               G Gb
                                                               Any time
 In the darkness
                                                               Or any day?
 All must fade
                                                               Runaway
 Do you wish to run away
 G Gb
                                                               Always wish to run away
 Any time
                                                               Never see any other way
 Or any day?
                                                                    Gb
                                                               In my puzzled mind
 Downwards, the way I start to fall
                                                               Vanishing
                       (Dbm D E F Bm Dbm D E F)
 Answers I seek at vertical
                                                               In the darkness
                                                               All must fade
 Remove all the memories that long last
                             (Dbm D E F Bm Dbm D E F
                                                               Do you wish to run away
                                                               G Gb
 Escape from the demons of my past
                                                               Any time
                                                               Or any day?
 No sense I find in what I read
```

Acordes

