

XXXTentacion - The Remedy For a Broken Heart (Why Am I So In Love)

```
We gon' be al- (right) we gon' be al-
                            tom:
                                                                Mix a little bit of weed with a little bit of cash
                Bbm (forma dos acordes no tom de Am )
Capostraste na 1ª casa
                                                                With a little bit of this, with a little bit of that [Refrain]
                                                                We gon' be al-, we gon' be alright
                                                               We gon' be al- (right) we gon' be al-
Why am I so in love?
                                                                Mix a little bit of weed with a little bit of cash
Why am I so in love?
                                                                                      Em
                                                                With a little bit of this, with a little bit of that
Why am I so in love?
                                                                We gon' be al-, we gon' be al (right)
I don't know why
                                                                We gon' be alright, we gon' be al-
[Primeira Parte]
                                                               Mix a little bit of weed with a little bit of cash
Steady tryin' to maintain
                                                                With a little bit of this, with a little bit of that
                                                                We gon' be al- (right) we gon' be al-
Same things that'll blow a bitch mind frame
My brain can't fathom what the hate say
                                                                We gon' be al- (right) we gon' be al-
He say, she say, how 'bout me say?
                                                                Why am I so in love?
Get the Vis-a, headed to the islands A-S-A-P
                                                                I don't know why
What's that on my shawty wrist? That's a AP
                                                                Why am I so in love?
I'm the type to save a bitch, C-A-P-E
                                                                I don't know why
Feelin' like ET, flyin' out of the Addy
                                                                [Ponte]
Fuckin' on shawty, she baddie, casual convo then at it
                                                                               Fm
                                                                She said I, oh, I, am fallin' for you, fallin' for you
I mean I'm better than better, maybe I'm lyin'
                                                                I, oh, I, am fallin' for you, fallin' for you
I'm sadder than most of y'all with the money and the freedom,
                                                                I, oh, I, am fallin' for you, fallin' for you
What is money really worth if it ain't love?
                                                                I, oh, I, am fallin' for you, fallin' for you
I'ma find a perfect balance, it's gon' take time
I heard shawty still in love through the grapevine
                                                                Why am I so in love?
Heard shawty still in love through the grapevine
                                                                Why am I so in love?
Heard shawty in love through the grapevine
                                                                Why am I so in love?
[Refrão]
                                                                I don't know why
Mix a little bit of weed with a little bit of cash
                                                                Why am I so in love?
With a little bit of this, with a little bit of that
                                                                Why am I so in love?
We gon' be al-, we gon' be al- (right)
                                                                Why am I so in love?
                                                                I don't know why
Acordes
      Bbn
```

