

Zapp & Roger - I Want To Be Your Man

```
I tried, I tried, I tried, I tried to tell you how I feel tom:
                Db (forma dos acordes no tom de C )
Capostraste na 1º casa
                                                                  But I get mixed up (so mixed up)
                                                                 My mind is blind at times, I can't see anyone but you
             C
                Am
                                                                 And those other girls don't matter, no, they can't spoil my
Hey lady, let me tell you why
I can't live my life without you
                                                                  I must make you understand
Every time I see you walking by, I get a thrill
You don't understand but in time you will
                                                                 I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
                                                                  I wanna be your man, (yes, I do, yeah, yeah)
I must make you understand
                                                                  I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
                                                                  I wanna be your man, (wanna be your man)
I wanna be your man, (yes, I do, yeah, yeah)
I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
                                                                 I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
I wanna be your man, (wanna be your man)
                                                                   wanna be your man, (yes, I do, yeah, yeah)
                                                                  I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
Better not pass me by 'cause if you do wanna be your man, (wanna be your man)
You'll lose a good thing, (oh, baby)
                                                                                   Am
'Cause what I have to say is sealed with a kiss
                                                                 I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
And wedding ring, (wedding ring)
                                                                   wanna be your man, (yes, I do, yeah, yeah)
My mind is blind at times, I can't see anyone but you
                                                                  I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
And those other girls don't matter, no, they can't spoil my
                                                                  I wanna be your man, (wanna be your man)
I must make you understand
                                                                  I must make you understand
                                                                  I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
                                                                 I wanna be your man, (yes, I do, yeah, yeah)
I wanna be your man, (yes, I do, yeah, yeah)
                                                                  I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
I wanna be your man, (I wanna be your man)
                                                                  I wanna be your man, (wanna be your man)
I wanna be your man, (wanna be your man)
                                                     G
                             Am
Acordes
      DЬ
                          ukulele-chords.com
            ukulele-chords.com
                                       ukulele-chords.com
```

Words can never say what I feel, it's too intense, (oh)