

Zé Maholics - High

```
Tom: Bb
                                                              And then I suffocate
                                                              Bbm
m [Intro] Ebm Ebm Ebm
                                                             Everyday
                                                                            Ebm
                                                              Confusion just appeals to me
      Bbm
             Fm
                Ebm
Baby I know
                                                                          Fm Ebm
             Fm
                 Ebm
                                                              So I just fly away
      Bbm
That you're feeling blue
                                                                           Bbm
                                                                                    Fbm
      Bbm
            Fm Ebm
I know you long
                                                              They say I'm high
      Bbm Fm Ebm
To have your dreams come true
                                                              They say I'm high
                                                                                    Fhm
                                                                           Bbm
                                                              They say I'm high
           Bhm
And then I suffocate
                                                              They say I'm high
Everyday
                                                              Rhm
              Fbm
Confusion just appeals to me
                                                              She walks away
             Fm Ebm
                                                              Ebm
So I just fly away
                                                              Then get you through
                                                              Bbm
                                                             But you're to blame
           Bbm
And then I suffocate
Bbm
                                                              For your own blues
Everyday
                                                              Bbm
               Ebm
                                                              Perhaps you get
Confusion just appeals to me
                                                              Fbm
             Fm Ebm
                                                              In better moods
So I just fly away
                                                              But what's the point
             Bbm
                      Fbm
                                                              Fhm
They say I'm high
                                                              When you cannot move
             Bbm
                      Ebm
They say I'm high
                                                              ( Bbm Db Ebm Fm Ebm Db )
             Bbm
                      Ebm
                                                              ( Bbm Db Ebm Fm Ebm Db )
They say I'm high
                      Fbm Fbm Fbm
They say I'm high
                                                              And all those tales
      Bbm
            Fm
                                                             That you tell yourself
The sun looks brighter
                                                                                    Fm Ebm Db
                                                              Will make you better than nobody else
      Bbm Fm
And the rain feels good
      Bbm Fm Ebm
                                                             Despite I know
It sinks your problems
      Bbm Fm Ebm
                                                              Db
                                                              That it feels good
they go down with you
                                                                                    Fm Ebm Db
                                                              Tomorrow comes and takes it down with you
And then I suffocate
                                                                           Bbm
                                                                                    Fbm
Bbm
Everyday
                                                              They say I'm high
              Ebm
Confusion just appeals to me
                                                              They say I'm high
            Fm Ebm
                                                                                    Ebm
                                                                           Bbm
So I just fly away
                                                              They say I'm high
                                                                                    Ebm
                                                              They say I'm high
```

Acordes

